The Faculty of Sciences' Women's Prize

Application
deadline:
15 January 2021

The proportion of women in science remains unsatisfactorily low despite the high potential. The Faculty of Sciences at FAU is therefore making an active contribution to significantly increasing the number of women in leading research positions and ensuring that women reach their full qualification potential. The Faculty Women's Prize not only honours the achievements of young female researchers, but also provides them with support during the course of their careers.

Which Faculty Women's Prize is awarded by the Faculty of Sciences?

The Faculty of Sciences awards a prize to an outstanding young female researcher every year by funding a position for a postdoctoral project or equivalent research project that is particularly worthy of funding. Funding is only provided in the subjects or qualification levels where women are under-represented.

Who can apply and what does the Faculty Women's Prize include?

Postdoctoral or doctoral researchers from all departments at the Faculty of Sciences

- The recipient is awarded staff funding for a position (50% TVL E13) for setting up or expanding their working group. This position is to be appointed by the recipient and may only be filled by a female doctoral candidate.

The Faculty Women's Prize is allocated to a Chair for a specific person for 12 months. The position is not subject to a mandatory vacancy period. The staff funding awarded by the prize may not be used to reduce or replace an existing position. This means the postdoctoral researcher/doctoral candidate must include details of the intended appointment in the working group in her application for the prize.

Applying for the Faculty Women's Prize

Candidates should apply to the women's representative at their department as well as the Faculty women's representative. The following documents are also required:

- List of publications
- Tabular curriculum vitae
- Copies of all university degree certificates and academic records
- A three-page description of the planned research project (subject, concept, research methods, current status of own research, work plan with time schedule, etc.)
- Career plan statement

Selection criteria for awarding the prize

- Above-average achievements
- Scientific independence
- Convincing project outline
- Potential success of applicant's planned research career
